- consumers do not demand GMO foods/products rather they avoid it.
- Tasmania has an established reputation for 'clean and green' produce GMO will damage Tasmania's reputation.
- Tasmania's agricultural sector is relatively small and has the unique ability to market specialist produce rather than large scale produce. GMO is not marketed as a specialist product so does not suit Tasmania's agricultural position.
- GMO organisms can not be 100 percent controlled or contained. GMO will impact on producers that do not want it and cause them financial loss.
- we believe Tasmania must not lose its GMO free status!
