To whom it may concern

I would like to confirm my support for a continuation of the moritorium on the production of genetically modified organisms (GMO) in Tasmania.

I love Tasmanian produce and the current GM Moratorium gives me the confidence that it is all GMO free.

Furthermore, Tasmanian food and beverages are known throughout the world as premium products. This respect largely comes from the fact that the products are GMO Free.

Being a GMO Free State gives Tasmania an important marketing edge and a point of differentiation in an ever competitive marketplace.

Tasmania needs to remain smart and use its GMO Free status to its advantage.

Yours sincerely,
Robyn Neeson
